

A futuristic, dark landscape with snow-capped mountains and a large planet in the sky. The scene is illuminated with a blue and purple color palette, creating a cold, atmospheric feel. The mountains are jagged and covered in snow, with some areas appearing to have a crystalline or metallic texture. In the sky, a large, dark planet with a bright horizon line is visible, along with a smaller, spherical object in the upper left. The overall composition is dramatic and sci-fi themed.

How it all started:

After being in multiple projects as investors and seeing others overpromising and having any lack of care towards their community, Krit Iamophas & David Stebnicki decided to create their own project to change the crypto space starting from building transparent and honest relationship with their holders.

“ We have created ENGOS to shake up the space, to teach people about crypto, how to invest, what potential risks may be and what to look out for to not to fall victim of another shady project”

– Dave & Krit

Questions for Developers;

Q: So you started on 22nd of Feb 2022, what have you done so far?

A: So far we have designed the web (alpha stage) and updated our WP, created a Proprietary Limited Company based in Australia, Completed audit by Interfi Network, designed and still designing arts for our cinematics and reached MC of $2,000,00.00 with just 124 holders and under 4 weeks.

Q: What's the marketing strategy for ENGOS?

A: We have decided to engage Marketing and PR companies for our project, we divided the world map into zones.

We are in the process of working on zone 1, which involves marketing in Australia, New Zealand and Singapore.

Every zone will be run by different marketing/PR companies and work together to achieve greatness.

Q: What is the end goal for Engos project?

A: There is no end goal for Engos to be completely honest, at this stage we are focusing on marketing, building cinematics for our game trailer and then building P2E game that everyone can enjoy and make money together by playing, after that we will move to metaverse and blockchain and so on.

Q: What makes Engos stand out from other projects on ETH blockchain?

A: We are building a transparent project where people can see where the money is or goes to, we have best intentions in our heart to help people do better in life and build financial freedom for themselves.

Story line for our game;

Humanity has sacrificed its prosperity in the year 2180 harvesting resources beyond their needs. Resources on Earth have become scarce while earth's core is cooling down because of the capitalization of industries harvesting its core for energy. Greed has become the downfall of humanity since the beginning of time, causing the shift in power and negatively impacting the survivability of the human race.

Humanity has ventured out to the outer ring of the Milky Way to find a new habitable planet due to the pollution, toxicity, and uninhabitable condition earth has become, with no other way to enter its atmosphere except through the blockage of man-made trash left blocking entry.

Left with no choice but to find a new home, we have stumbled upon an unknown galaxy beyond the Ophiuchus Cluster with a supermassive black hole between our home planet and the new, making the journey difficult with no way back without advancing our technology and finding resources to rebuild.

As we found a habitable planet within the new galaxy with riches in resources that we can use to advance our technology and science beyond measure and one day hope to save Earth as it was before. Humanity has decided to build a new world "Engos Prime" as a new home base but one thing humanity will always carry with them is greed and the consequences that it may carry.

Without knowing what resides within the new habitable planet (What dangerous creature lurks underground and why the storm is causing mutations and accelerating the growth in of the natural resources within the planet). Is this crystallized vapor (Engos) worth risking humanity's future for, or will greed be the downfall of humanity once again?
